

Sometimes when my baby boy has been so very well behaved: not fussing during his diaper changes, eating all of his mushy baby food, and playing quietly with all his soft toys, I like to give him an extra treat!

He probably doesn't remember the last time he had real sex and almost certainly doesn't remember what it felt like to make love to a woman anymore.

After I've laid him down for a nap, and he's all quiet and sleepy. I take out his little dick and pop it in my mouth, sucking at it like a pacifier! Of course, I never let him get too excited, I stop when he starts moaning and wriggling. He knows that baby boys don't cum!